Genesee Community Services to Open Second ABA Clinic in Hales Corners

Oconomowoc, Wis. – Genesee Community Services (GCS), a MyPath company, announced plans to open a second clinic in Hales Corners in June 2026, expanding access to Applied Behavior Analysis services for children and families across Waukesha and Milwaukee counties. Renovation at the future clinic site is now underway, marking the first phase of the project.

GCS currently provides clinic-based ABA services at its Brookfield location for children ages 18 months to six years old with Autism Spectrum Disorder. Services are individualized to meet each child’s unique needs and focus on developing communication, social interaction, daily living skills, emotional regulation and motor development.

The new Hales Corners clinic will also serve children ages eighteen months to six years old with Autism Spectrum Disorder and emphasize foundational skill development in:

- Social skills
- Emotional and self-regulation
- Gross and fine motor skills
- Communication
- Self-help and daily living activities

“The new space allows us to partner directly with more families to deliver skill based therapeutic services that empower children to thrive in their daily environments,” said Kelly Blaschko, Executive Director of GCS. “We are excited to expand our reach and deepen our impact in the communities we serve.”
