T.C. Harris School & Academy Receives Interim Accreditation from the Council on Accreditation

(Lafayette, In.) T.C. Harris School & Academy, a leading provider of educational and residential services for children and adolescents with neurodevelopmental disorders and mental health needs, announced today that it has received interim re-accreditation from the Council on Accreditation (COA). Having been fully accredited through COA since 2011, this marks T.C. Harris's fourth successful completion of the accreditation process and acknowledges their continued ability to meet the standards set by COA.

COA is an international, independent, nonprofit organization that accredits human and social service providers. COA's accreditation process involves a rigorous evaluation of an organization's policies, procedures, practices, and outcomes against best practice standards. Interim accreditation is granted to organizations that demonstrate substantial compliance with COA standards and a commitment to continuous quality improvement.

"We are thrilled to receive this recognition from COA, which validates our efforts to provide high-quality, person-centered, and trauma-informed services to our students and families," said Dorothy Buckhanan Wilson, Interim Executive Director of T.C. Harris. "This achievement reflects the dedication and professionalism of our staff, who work tirelessly to help our students reach their full potential."

T.C. Harris School & Academy serves students ages 6 to 22 with autism spectrum disorder, intellectual disability, emotional disturbance, and other complex needs. The school offers a comprehensive curriculum that integrates academic, social, vocational, and life skills instruction. T.C. Harris provides residential care in a safe and supportive environment that fosters independence and community integration.
